

9. Generating Functions

Generating functions are one of the most remarkable and useful tools in combinatorics and mathematics more generally. A generating function is a formal power series.